

Commencement

1882

The names published in this commencement program include all students who earned a doctorate, educational specialist, master's or baccalaureate degree fall terms 2017 or winter terms 2018, and any student who applied for a degree for spring terms 2018 or summer terms 2018 by the posted deadline.

Participation in commencement and inclusion in the commencement program does not guarantee official granting of a degree. The Graduate Programs Office (doctorate, educational specialist, master's) and the Records and Registration Office (baccalaureate) verify completion of all coursework before a degree is conferred. The official document verifying degree completion is the official Eastern Washington University transcript.

This event provides an opportunity for celebration, gratitude and reflection. In the midst of our celebration, we ask that you take a moment of silence to acknowledge the service, compassion and dedication of our faculty and staff members who are not with us today.

A HISTORY OF EASTERN WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

In 1882, the Benjamin P. Cheney Academy opened its doors to more than 200 enrolling students. A generous contribution of $10,000 from a wealthy transportation industrialist had at last fulfilled the dreams of Cheney citizens for an institute of higher learning in their community.

The academy became the State Normal School at Cheney in 1889, the same year in which Washington was given its statehood. The school was proudly designated as an institution “for the purpose of instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching the various branches that pertain to a good common school.”

By the time it became Eastern Washington College of Education in 1937, Eastern was already a fully accredited four-year degree-granting institution, offering majors in numerous subjects.

The campus grew rapidly in size and program offerings in the decades following World War II. In 1961, the name was again changed, this time to Eastern Washington State College. It was increasingly evident that the region needed professionals in many fields; in response, a wide range of undergraduate and graduate degree programs were added. Finally, in 1977, the name was changed to Eastern Washington University by the state legislature.

As a regional university, Eastern is charged with the special responsibility of meeting the undergraduate and graduate educational needs of the region’s people.

To that end, program areas have grown and been redefined as the needs of the Inland Northwest have grown and changed. Master’s programs have been added to meet the need for graduate-level education, and individual programs and schools have increasingly been granted accreditation by their respective oversight organizations as those programs and schools have grown and matured.

Today, Eastern students represent nearly every state in the union and more than 40 foreign countries. More than 100 different academic majors are available, offering students a wide variety of career-path options.

Nearly 600 full-time and adjunct faculty teach on the Cheney campus and at several locations throughout the state. Three-quarters of Eastern’s full-time faculty members hold doctorate degrees. With a low student-to-faculty ratio, Eastern continues to stress small classes, personalized instruction and individual attention.

Perhaps even more significant than Eastern’s steady advancement during the past 135 years is the university’s expanded regional role and its evolving goals, objectives and vision of its future.

In the past decade, Eastern Washington University has become a major force in the state and the Pacific Northwest, not only in the education of more than 12,000 students each year, but in the civic, cultural, scientific and economic development of the state and region.

GRADUATION WITH ACADEMIC HONORS

Undergraduate students who have demonstrated exceptional academic performance are honored in the commencement program listing.

Summa Cum Laude: Seniors who have a cumulative grade point average of 3.90-4.00-Gold Honors Cord.

Magna Cum Laude: Seniors who have a grade point average of 3.70-3.89-Silver Honors Cord.

Cum Laude: Seniors who have a grade point average of 3.50-3.69-Red and White Honors Cord.

University Honors: Seniors who completed special course work requirements through the Honors Program-Purple Honors Cord.

UNIVERSITY MACE

The tradition of a ceremonial mace for academic institutions goes back to medieval times. Adapted in form from the ancient battle weapon used by knights, the ceremonial mace symbolized the authority of regal personages, city or shire ruling bodies and chief officers of chartered institutions.

Originally representing vested authority during all official meetings, it eventually came to be connected mainly with formal ceremonies. In academic institutions, this is usually in conjunction with an academic procession, where the mace is carried at the head of the line of march or just before the platform party.

The form of the ceremonial mace has remained fairly consistent over the centuries. Design often reflects the period of creation, especially in the elaboration of ornamentation. Gold, silver and dark wood are traditional materials.

Eastern's mace, commissioned as a gift during the centennial year to the university by former and present members of the EWU Board of Trustees, was created by artist-craftsman Clifford Gaynard after a region-wide design competition. Its polished silver head in flowing cuplike form carries the university seal. The dark rosewood shaft with upper and medial gold-plated bosses is gently curved into the terminal silver cap at the bottom.

Although the modern design departs from the traditional straight and elaborately ornamented pattern, it retains a full effect of balance, dignity and decorum, while capturing the flowing lines typical of the eastern Washington landscape.

A permanent display case for the Eastern Washington University mace is located in the Office of the President.

ACADEMIC REGALIA

The regalia worn for formal academic ceremonies such as commencements are patterned after the gowns and hoods worn regularly in the Middle Ages by scholars for warmth in unheated buildings and as distinguishing dress denoting their place in society.

A great variety of designs and colors developed over the years in the costumes worn at different universities. Since 1895 in the United States, a uniform intercollegiate code of style and colors has been adhered to by most institutions.

In accordance with this code, most academic gowns are black, although some universities permit other solid colors. Occasionally, the robe color may indicate a professional distinction, such as deep purple for law or scarlet for ecclesiastical honors. Adaptations of the academic costume for high schools have sometimes used colors other than black for purely decorative purposes. Sometimes a distinguishing device on the robe or cap indicates an individual honor or a special occasion.

The baccalaureate gown is of simple cut with full, somewhat pointed sleeves. The front is closed and often no hood is worn with this gown. The mortar board head covering originated in ancient Greece, symbolizing the commitment of the scholar to a life of building. It has either a plain black tassel or one of a color indicating the subject area of the degree. The custom of shifting the cap's tassel from right to left at the time of awarding the degree is used in lieu of investing each candidate with the bachelor's hood.

The master's gown is similar to the bachelor's gown, except that the sleeves are fuller, cut square with a half-circle at the bottom and sometimes worn with the arms through a horizontal slit at elbow level.

The doctoral robe is ampler in cut with a full bell-shaped sleeve, velvet panel edging in the front and three velvet stripes on each sleeve. The velvet trim may be black or in the color appropriate to the degree. The mortar board tassel for the doctorate is gold. Some American and many foreign universities use cap forms other than the mortar board, ranging from a soft velvet beret to more elaborate fringed styles, each of which has its own historical tradition.

Hoods worn over the gowns have a velvet edging, usually in a color indicating the specific degree and a lining which is partially turned out to show the colors of the college or university which granted the degree.

Some of the colors used for tassels and velvet panels to designate the degree are:

STUDENT COMMENCEMENT SPEAKERS

10 A.M. CEREMONY

Erin Locke

Graduating today with a Bachelor of Arts in Education, including a major in health and fitness and a certificate in teaching English as a second language, Erin Locke started her Eastern experience as a Running Start student from Washougal, Washington. During her time at EWU, Locke held an array of roles on campus: synamncut Hall council president, community advisor, member of EWU Cru (Christian faith-based student organization) and founder and coach of the EWU Brazilian Jiu-Jitsu Club. She has been recognized as the EWU Resident of the Year, Club Sport Athlete of the Year, and winner of the prestigious Francis B. Huston Medallion through the College of Arts, Letters and Education for leadership in service and academic performance. Locke states that one of the most influential experiences of her undergraduate career was teaching a group of primarily refugee and immigrant students through her education practicum in Ferris High School's English as a Second Language Program. As a play on her last name, Locke's students nicknamed her "Miss Key." Following graduation, she plans to work in education.

2 P.M. CEREMONY

Michelle Danico

Michelle Danico credits her two children with spurring her desire to pursue a college education and giving her the motivation to succeed at EWU. A non-traditional student from Spokane Valley, Washington, Danico states that she was "terrified" to step back into the classroom after 10 years away from school. Today, she will walk across the stage with a Bachelor of Science in Applied Developmental Psychology and her academic success at Eastern has been undeniable, earning her regular recognition on the Dean's List, membership in the Psi Chi Honors Society, and summa cum laude honors. In fall 2017, prior to completing her degree, Danico was hired as a registered behavior technician and she is enjoying putting her education to work by supporting her clients in their treatment process. For her next step, she intends to pursue a master's degree and become a board certified behavior analyst. Through her commencement address, Danico hopes to "remind people that no matter what life throws your way, it's never too late to begin a new journey."

FACULTY EMERITI RECOGNITION

Jing-Qiu (“Jane”) Liu

Jane Liu served as a professor of education at Eastern Washington University from 1998 to 2017. Prior to joining Eastern, she served four years as a tenure-track assistant professor at Troy State University, Alabama. She obtained her doctoral degree in Foundations of Education and her Masters of Science in Curriculum and Instructional Technology from Iowa State University.

Liu served as the director of Master in Teaching program from 2004 to 2017, and was responsible for the integrity of the various concentrations for the Master’s in Education degree as well as off-campus and/or self-support programs. Additionally, she served as an advisor for the 16th annual EWU Student Research and Creative Works Symposium and received an award for “encouraging, supporting and helping students” from the Associated Students of Eastern Washington University in 2013.

Liu has presented her work at conferences and symposia around the world. She was a Fulbright Scholar in 2000 and led 11 Spokane K-20 educators to China for six weeks.

Among all years of her scholarly work, research, publications and presentations, her focus has been on comparative studies between America and China's K-12 education. She has developed an international reputation as a leader and scholar, spending significant time in rural China promoting education and working with at-risk youth, publishing extensively on multicultural issues in education, and presenting on cultural differences in education in Italy, China, Spain and Taiwan, among others.

Linda B. McCollum

Linda McCollum, PhD, is retiring from the Department of Geology at the end of spring quarter 2018 after 35 years of teaching, scholarship and service to the university, college and department. McCollum was an assistant professor from 1983–1987, an associate professor from 1987–1992 and was promoted to full professor in 1992. McCollum served as department chair from 1993–2000.

McCollum has taught a wide range of lower and upper division undergraduate courses during her career at EWU, including discovering geology, historical geology, invertebrate paleontology, environmental geology, world resources and population, stratigraphy, geology of eastern Washington, petroleum geology and others. She also taught geology field camp when it was taught in the Death Valley region. She has supervised seven Master of Science students and served as a committee member for three Master of Science students.

McCollum has been very active in student research funded by three NSF grants resulting in numerous peer-reviewed scientific articles. She is recognized as a leading expert on Cambrian faunas and environments, serving as a voting member of the International Subcommittee on Cambrian Stratigraphy. She is presently a board member of the Cheney-Spokane Chapter of the Ice Age Floods Institute and has presented several scientific talks on megafloods and their deposits. She has mapped over 500 sq. miles of the local geology.

Suzanne M. Schwab

Suzanne Schwab has served the Eastern Washington University Department of Biology since 1983, as full professor since 1993, and as the 1992 to 1993 department chair. She has taught more than 25 different course topics throughout her career ranging from the entire introductory biology sequence to cell biology, botany, plant physiology, mycology and vertebrate zoology.

Schwab has mentored numerous undergraduate and graduate students. She is known for her unmatched ability to clearly convey complex material and her legendary sense of humor.

Schwab's research is focused on the ecological and physiological aspects of plant-microbe interactions. Her work measuring plant evapotranspiration rates using a LiCOR photosynthesis system played a key role in her 2016 publication in Wetlands showing that eastern Washington stream flows are reduced by the presence of an invasive grass.

She has been active in grant writing and publication throughout her career with 13 peer-reviewed publications and grants from numerous organizations including the National Science Foundation.

In recognition of her teaching, research and service activities, Schwab received the 1986 Burlington Northern Faculty Excellence Award and the 2010 Dean's Excellence Award.

Outside of her work at EWU, she has served as president of the Northeast Chapter of the Washington Native Plant Society for numerous years, editor for the journal Northwest Science, and as a long-standing member of the Washington Natural Heritage Advisory Council.

Darl W. Vander Linden

Darl Vander Linden was on the faculty in the Department of Physical Therapy at Eastern Washington University from 1992 to 2017.

Vander Linden received his BS in animal science from Iowa State University in 1971, his certificate of physical therapy from the University of Iowa in 1975, his master's degree in physical therapy from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1985, and his PhD in exercise science from the University of Iowa in 1989.

After receiving his physical therapy degree, Vander Linden worked with children with developmental disabilities in the public schools for eight years in Illinois and Iowa, and taught for three years at the University of Florida in Gainesville prior to coming to Eastern.

Vander Linden served on many committees at the department, college and university levels while at Eastern. He also helped develop the doctor of physical therapy degree at EWU.

He served as a member of the editorial board of Physical and Occupational Therapy in Pediatrics for many years and was a reviewer for several additional journals related to the practice of physical therapy.

Vander Linden presented numerous research papers at national conferences and published many articles in refereed journals while at Eastern. He was an associate editor for the first three editions of Physical Therapy for Children, a textbook that has been widely adopted by physical therapy programs throughout the United States.

FACULTY EMERITI RECOGNITION

Philip J. Weller

Philip Weller has served the EWU Department of English since 1969. He received his BA from the University of Puget Sound in 1963, his MA from Washington State University in 1965, and his PhD from Kent State University in 1969.

He was director of the University Writing Program from 1979 to 1983. A sensitive and creative specialist in many areas of Shakespeare studies, he edited many of Shakespeare's most famous plays and was an award-winning playwright of contemporary drama as well. On the other side of the footlights, he studied the Stanislavski method under Spokane's veteran directors, Bob and Joan Welch.

He has brought a deep understanding of his course materials to many generations of students in the fields of expository writing and effective thinking, in addition to his specialty in Shakespeare, concentrated work in the genres of poetry, the short story, and all the periods of British literature.

The author of dozens of online publications, he was an early and enthusiastic innovator in the use of the internet in connecting students with his courses, and he was as adept with its possibilities as he was with visual materials in the classroom.

He was a member of many important committees of his department, college and the university. His students and colleagues have benefited from his thoughtful scholarship, sensitive reading abilities, generosity of spirit, deep knowledge of literature and compositional theory and practice, his disdain of superficiality, and his sometimes gentle, sometimes wicked, sense of humor.

Dick G. Winchell

Dick Winchell served as professor of urban and regional planning from 1986 to 2017, and was department chair for 10 of those years. He was awarded membership as a Fellow of American Institute of Certified Planners in 2004, one of fewer than 500 members nationally. During his career at EWU, Winchell received numerous awards including EWU Outstanding Faculty and Outstanding Researcher.

Winchell has a doctorate degree in geography from Arizona State University and a Master of Urban and Regional Planning-Community Development from the University of Colorado-Denver. His research in tribal transportation traffic safety, smart growth for reservations, and sustainable planning was published in numerous articles and book chapters and he was co-editor of a book on rural sustainability. He was involved in more than $20 million in grants to EWU.

Winchell worked as a city planner for Huntington Beach, California, and Scottsdale, Arizona; for a large architectural firm in Phoenix, and for the Fort McDowell Yavapai Indian Community. He was director of the Native American Public Administration Program at Arizona State University and established the first tribal management program in the nation at Scottsdale Community College.

He considers his greatest accomplishment the students he taught and influenced, and their successes in planning careers and life. His scholarship merging research and service exemplifies the engaged faculty and the results of that work have had tremendous impact on communities, the urban and regional planning discipline, and the lives of his students.

Sally A. Winkle

Sally Winkle earned her PhD in German literature from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. She came to EWU in 1983 as an assistant professor of German. She chaired the department of Modern Languages and Literatures from 1993 to 1996. She also directed a study abroad program in Lübeck, Germany, where she chaperoned many students from 1997 to 2004.

In 1998, while continuing to teach in the German program, Winkle became director of Women's and Gender Studies, which at the time was a small program offering merely a minor. Under Winkle's leadership, that program grew to offer first a certificate, then a major. She made service learning an important part of the program, fostering a strong sense of social responsibility in the students.

In 1994-95 Winkle participated in the creation of the EWU Faculty Union and served as its first president; and in 2005-06 she served as president of the Faculty Organization.

Winkle's vast publication record focuses on subjects such as social justice, fascism and women's rights. Her main achievements include the book Woman as Bourgeois Feminine Ideal, (1988), as well as A Nazi Germany Sourcebook: An Anthology of Texts (2002), that she co-authored with her husband Rod Stackelberg.

During her career, she has received many prestigious awards, including the Bella Abzug Award from the Spokane Women's Coalition (2008), EWU Trustees' Medal (2014) and Rep. Timm Ormsby Faculty Citizenship Award (2014).

Winkle has been a strong voice for faculty and students, and a leader in women's rights and social justice.

Sue M. Wright

Professor Sue Marie Wright completed her PhD at the University of Oregon in 1994 before joining the Department of Sociology and Justice Studies at Eastern Washington University.

While at Eastern, Wright developed and taught courses on social science research methods, as well as children, family and gender. Early in her tenure at Eastern, she launched the social science instruction lab through a National Science Foundation grant, teaching some of the first computer-assisted data analysis courses on campus.

Later in her career, Wright worked with Armin Arndt, PhD, (psychology) and Fran Sherwood (education) to create the first children's studies degree program in the nation and served as the program's director from 2004 to 2013.

Over the years, Wright's research has focused on community support for children, with nationally and regionally funded projects. These projects and publications have highlighted children's perceptions of school and neighborhood safety, children's farm safety, children's attitudes and behaviors with respect to recreational activities, and the impact of community support on children's academic success.

Wright is currently working on a book exploring the history and culture of the Austin Home-based Community School in Austin, Texas, and is working to launch a creative center for sustainability in southern Oregon.

TRUSTEES' MEDAL AWARD

The Trustees' Medal Award is the university's highest form of recognition for faculty achievement. Each year since 1978, the award has honored teaching excellence, significant contributions to scholarship and research, and accomplishments in the development of academic programs and curriculums. The award consists of a bronze medallion and a $1,500 cash prize from the EWU Foundation.

Heather R. McKean

After a 34-year career, Heather McKean, senior associate faculty in EWU's Department of Biology, leaves behind an amazing legacy as she prepares to retire this spring.

McKean's legacy to the university includes developing a well-respected science education program, organizing Science Olympiad competitions, generating more than $2.8 million in grants to support students and science education, and educating generations of biology teachers.

Her own career began as a secondary science teacher from 1976 to 1978.

McKean developed the BAE in biology/secondary science education for future high school teachers and the BAE in natural science for future elementary and middle school teachers. Both programs are designed around the premise that our science teachers must have a strong foundation in their subject.

McKean advises pre-service teachers, develops and assesses curriculum for EWU, coordinates with EWU science education faculty, serves as a region-wide expert on science education, and obtains grant funding to support science education.

As a supervisor for regional, state and national Science Olympiad competitions, McKean has brought these competitions to EWU every other spring. In 2000, she was successful in bringing the National Science Olympiad to EWU. More than 3,000 students participated in this event, which usually is reserved for R1 universities (classified as having the highest research activity). Many students ultimately chose to attend Eastern because of their experience with the Science Olympiad.

Over the years, she had been instrumental in securing a Noyce Scholarship National Science Foundation grant in 2010, and again in 2017, to increase the number of quality science teachers in low-income schools. McKean has been relentless in recruiting quality students for the $16,000 per year scholarships and mentor teachers from area high schools to participate in the Noyce program.

McKean is highly regarded as a teacher by her students and colleagues. She has mentored numerous faculty in the biology department to improve their teaching skills. She's been a leader in developing authentic assessment tools and in helping EWU students prepare for state assessment exams.

As one of McKean's former students, Drake Haren, wrote, "I feel so proud to say that I was one of Heather's students – as do many other science educators in the Spokane area do. We gained invaluable experience from one of the best educators in Washington state. I truly wish my time at EWU wasn't finished for the simple fact that I want to learn more from Heather. She made learning enjoyable and attainable for me. I'm very proud of the education I received. I could never thank her enough."

In addition to numerous publications, workshops, presentation and consulting projects, McKean has been a member of the National Association of Biology Teachers, National Science Teachers Association, Washington State Science Teachers' Association, Washington State Science Olympiad, Regional and State Board of Directors, Teachers of Teachers of Science.

McKean is an Eastern alumna. In 1983, she received her MS in biology after earning a BAE and BS in biology in 1975.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE AWARDS

The Distinguished Service Awards are given each year to recognize exemplary service and outstanding contributions to the university. Letters of nomination and support are reviewed by the University Medals and Awards Committee.

Admir Djulovic
Classified Staff

Admir Djulovic's classification is Information Tech Specialist 4 on the IT Administrative Operations Team at EWU. What does that mean? It means he has impressive skills when it comes to system integration, programming and technical analytics. In 2005, he earned his BS in computer science from Eastern, followed by a master's degree in 2014.

But there's so much more. As his former supervisor Dennis Wilson, director of Student Financial Services writes, "Admir is one of those rare individuals who can explain and demonstrate something very technically complicated and make it so a non-technical user can understand. Admir has a great deal of integrity and skill in his position."

Co-worker Linda Darr wrote, "Admir is someone I aspire to be like." She noted that he shared his templates and support in scheduling jobs with Records and Registration allowing them to benefit in several automated processes. "What's even more notable is his unwavering upbeat attitude, acceptance of all and team spirit."

There are many examples of how Djulovic has improved the university's operations through automation. What used to take two full-time employees 60 hours to complete in Student Financial Services, now takes one person just six hours.

"Admir constantly maintains a cheerful attitude and a high degree of professionalism. His strong, positive attitude is refreshing and infectious and has a big impact. Admir takes pride in what he does for our institution and make us a better, stronger team," wrote Ralph Arnett of the Customer IT Solutions Team.

Co-worker LouAnn Hommel wrote, "If he was only a great programmer and technical analyst that would be impressive indeed. However, Admir couples that skill with a delightful personality, one that is warm and approachable. Eastern is a better place, because Admir is a part of it."

The award includes the Distinguished Service Award medallion and a check for $1,000. These awards were presented at the University Family Thanksgiving reception in November 2017.

Lori Livingstone
Administrative Exempt

The mission of EWU's Human Resources: We inspire respect, inclusion, integrity and excellence in all we do. HR associate Lori Livingstone embodies this mission in everything she does.

Livingstone came to Eastern in July 2003. Over the years, she has provided human resources consultation and support to various areas on campus, specifically Academic Affairs, Information Technology and Student Affairs. She currently supports the academic side of Academic Affairs and the Provost's Office and is solely responsible for faculty recruiting.

Over the years, biology professor Margaret O'Connell has worked with Livingstone on numerous successful faculty searches. She fondly remembers the first time they met in October 2009.

"I was a new department chair and Lori was new to faculty recruitment. She came to the meeting in a bright orange super woman Halloween costume and was moving a bit stiffly because she had run a marathon the day before. I often think how that costume and marathon epitomize her approach to her job and her contributions to EWU. She has a tremendously positive 'can-do, let's get it done' approach and is always willing to go the extra mile to facilitate a successful search," O'Connell writes.

Livingstone was instrumental in the upgrade to HR's People Admin Position Management and Applicant Tracking System. She performed significant testing on the product, developed user manuals, conducted training and would be considered an expert on the system. Because of her work, HR Services was able to move forward on the upgrade in September 2016.

Livingstone takes the time to provide the departments the thorough and detailed information they need in order to properly handle staff mentoring, evaluations, supervisory communication and discipline, if needed.

2017-2018 FRANCES B. HUSTON MEDALLION AWARDS

Frances Breitweg Huston circa 1955

Frances B. Huston Medallion Recognizes Graduating Seniors for Excellence in Academics, Leadership, and Service.

Frances Breitweg Huston was born in Vancouver, Washington, Aug. 13, 1912. She grew up in Portland, Oregon, and received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Reed College in 1931, and her Master of Arts in English Literature from the University of Washington (1947/1948). In 1955, Graham Dressler, PhD, professor of English at what was then Eastern Washington College of Education, offered Huston a position teaching English and English as a second language. Huston joined EWU's faculty in the fall of 1955 and taught until her retirement in academic year 1975/1976.

The Frances B. Huston Medallion Award was established in 1998 by a gift from Mary Ann Nelson, EWU professor of English emerita, as a tribute to Huston's lifelong commitment to education and a generosity to students that was quiet but ongoing. The medallion award program recognizes outstanding graduates and reflects Huston's compassion and respect for what education can do for an individual and a community. This award is presented to only 20 graduating students each year.

Recipients of the Frances B. Huston Medallion Award will have established themselves as exceptionally capable individuals in both academic and extracurricular activities. The faculty and administration of Eastern Washington University acknowledge their great pride in the accomplishments of these students during their college experience and expect even greater accomplishments in the years that lie ahead.

To be eligible to receive the award, students must

- be graduating seniors;
- have demonstrated outstanding academic achievement with a minimum of a 3.75 GPA in their previous four quarters; and
- qualify for the award in one or more of the following areas: leadership, service to the university and/or service to the community.

University College, a new college added during the 2016-17 academic year, helps fulfill the mission of Eastern Washington University by expanding opportunities for personal transformation through excellence in learning. This is accomplished through the collaboration of faculty and staff to develop and enhance undergraduate courses and programs leading to a transformational college experience.

Through the University College, students are assured of a valuable and evolving general education that allows them to be informed, critical-thinking, engaged citizens. Students are connected with enrichment and research opportunities through the Honors Program, the McNair Scholarship program, Community Engagement, Undergraduate Research, General Education, and the Faculty Commons.

The location of Faculty Commons in the University College ensures that students are taught by faculty who are continuously growing, developing and sharing the latest scholarship, pedagogy and technology. The university is a teaching institution, and faculty choose to work at Eastern because they can see the transformations that they support in students.

University College also serves as a liaison to other colleges, units and divisions, and is designed to smooth the logistical bumps in the road so that students can direct their energy to the exhilarating, and sometimes exhausting, process of transformation.
