

How (Not) to Talk to Your Colleagues about Race: Acknowledging Identity with Respect and Humility

Monday, December 14, 2020 * 12:00pm - 1:30pm

Zoom link will be provided upon registration.

Higher education faculty, administrators, and staff have become increasingly diverse in the past decades and the narrative around race in the US has matured, but the way we talk about race in the workplace has not necessarily kept pace with this reality.

Join us for a frank, searching discussion about:

- How to talk about race in a way that centers the concerns of the most affected
- Identity and representation in the workplace
- Particular issues relating to representation in higher education staffing
- How to create a workplace culture that is affirming of the whole person

Presented by:

Kim Davis, Senior Director for Diversity and Inclusion

Workshop curriculum developed by Michael Reid.

Please RSVP attendance to Kim Davis at kdavis2@ewu.edu or 509.359.6874. You will receive the Zoom link and password upon registering.

People needing accommodation should contact Kim Davis at (509) 359-6874 or kdavis2@ewu.edu five days in advance of the event.